2010 R NUTS POINTS

3-28-10 Update

The top 3 overall Male/Female in the Series are runners who have participated in all of our events. There are some runners that have a lower point total due to missing a race or two but the results start to look confusing when they are included in the Top3 Overall.

The rest of the runners have been placed in point total order.

3-7-10 Update

Alright, I've updated the results for the series. In the Group Results, your place may have changed from race day. That is because I have taken the Top 3 Overall and Masters Winners and placed them into their respective age group category. Series entrants are highlighted in gray. In addition, I am still getting R NUTS entries and will be adding them to the results as they come in, so places may change as people decide to join the series.

We have one series entrant that has had a birthday since the series started on 1/9/10. For the Series, she stays in the same age group that she was in on 1/9/10 but she will show up in her new category in each of the individual race results (Confusing, huh. Stop having birthdays will you.).

At this point I think I have accurate results posted. If you see an error or need me to explain my numerical madness, please send me a note. I do not claim to be perfect, but I try to have an attention to detail.
